ENTHUSIASTIC CROWD ATTENDS HARBOR PROPOSAL HEARING

U.S. Engineers Furnished With Important Information Concerning Local Harbor and Shipping

When the engineers of the United States War Department came to Redwood City to conduct the hearing on the proposed harbor development project here, they were met by one of the most enthusiastic gatherings that has ever assembled here. The meeting was scheduled to have taken place in the city hall here, but so great was the number of interested visitors that it was decided that the civic auditorium would accommodate the crowd better.

Representatives of the Southern Pacific, the McCormick Steamship Co., the James Rolph Steamship Co., Swayne and Hoyte and other shipping concerns were present, as well as representatives of the Pacific Portland Cement Co., both of the local industries and other manufacturers and representatives of land holders along the bay.

The meeting Tuesday was called to order by Major Schultz of the War Department, who called upon the town of Redwood City to show what funds it had available. City Attorney Albert Mansfield acted as spokesman for the town and called upon W. L. Fairbanks, harbor engineer, who has been at work for the city for several weeks past gathering the necessary data for this occasion.

Fairbank's report was in writing and was presented to the engineers of the War Department. In presenting this written report Fairbanks reviewed briefly the conditions which he had found during his investigation of the harbor.

"This is the only point on the peninsula where a project of this kind is feasible," Fairbanks stated.

"Roughly estimated there are approximately 10,000 acres of solid land, marshland and water courses between Redwood City and the bay, and between Steinberger slough and Ravenswood Point which are suitable for industrial development and the construction of an industrial harbor. Much of this land is immediately available for the construction of manufacturing plants. Much of it requires reclamation; but these lands constute an asset for Redwood City which will contribute more to her welfare than any other possible factor.

"The only property in San Francisco in a usable condition with wharf facilities and 24 feet of water that can be purchased is an area of six acres on Islais Creek for which a price of $3.50 per square foot—$140,000 per acre—is being asked. Between Hunters' Point and South San Francisco the shore lands are either hilly or are distant from the bay channel."

The harbor engineer gave information desired by the government officials relative to the amount of commerce which is now using the waters of the bay in this section, and also the amount which might be expected. The amount of outgoing shipping by local factories was also considered. This information was also given by the different companies interested.

Information as to the draft of vessels which might be expected to use this harbor was given by representatives of the Swayne & Hoyte, the McCormick Steamship Co. and the Rolph Navigation Co.

City Engineer C. L. Dimmitt and a representative of the Southern Pacific Co. spoke on contemplated improvements along the harbor front, including construction of terminal facilities, reclamation of land, etc.

Other speakers included E. B Hinman, president of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Henry Beeger of Redwood City, Traffic Manager Frye of the Southern Pacific Co., Wendel Thomas of the San Jose Chamber of Commerce, Vice President Towle of the Pacific Portland Cement Co., F. T. Letchfield of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, Charles Brown of Swayne & Hoyte, Dalton McCarthy of the Rolph Navigation Co., R. J. Titus of the McCormick Steamship Co., George A. Merrill f the Redwood Harbor Co. and others.

In speaking for the town Mayor Beeger promised the greatest co-operation with the national government. "We will match the federal government dollar for dollar," Beeger stated. E. B. Hinman also promised the fullest co-operation from the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce.

The engineers of the War Department appeared to be well satisfied with the information given them. While their findings will not be made known until their report is filed, it is felt that federal aid will be forth coming.

In speaking of the matter after the hearing Engineer Fairbanks stated that there is little doubt but that federal aid will be granted. "But it will take time," he said. "The oportunities are so great here that it would pay the people of Redwood City to develop the harbor if they had to pay for the whole thing." Fairbanks also warned the people of Redwood City against becoming discouraged if this matter takes a long time in coming to its culmination. The United States government acts very slowly in matters of this sort.

The proceedure of the government as explained by Major Schultze is as follows: The first step is the holding of a hearing such as was held here on Tuesday. If the engineers conclude from this hearing that the benefits which would accrue from the proposed expenditures are sufficient to warrant the necessary expense, the recommendation is made that a preliminary survey be started. If this survey further bears out the contention as to the desirability of the proposed work, congress is asked to make an appropriation of the necessary amount.

The proposed improvement on the waterfront includes the dredging of a channel three hundred feet wide and thirty feet deep at low water, and of a turning basin 800 feet across. The total cost of this dredging, as estimated by City Engineer Charles Dimmitt will be about $627,000. Erection of terminal facilities, including a wharf, warehouse, spur tracks, etc. is estimated at about $235,000.

Menalto Park is the name of the new subdivision that is being placed on the market at Ravenswood. It consists of thirty acres of the O'Keefe tract. The one hundred and fifty lots are to be watered, sewered and light and gas is to be brought on the subdivision. It is practically an addition to North Palo Alto, which is built of fine residences and is only a short distance from Crescent Park across the creek in Palo Alto and one of the choice exclusive districts of the peninsula. The map of Menalto Park will be filedd on Monday next. Already there is a spirited inquiry for lots in Menalto Park. The main road to the new Dumbarton bridge intersects this tract. OLD LANDMARK FALLS

Just at the end of Phelps street where the Middlefield road begins there is a pretty vine covered cottage with its moss grown roof and green blinds that is being wrecked and the old lumber carted to other parts of the city to be used in the construction of new buildings.

The modest little dwelling will soon be forgotten and perhaps it is well that it should for it has an unsavory past.

In recent years it has been the abode of respectable and God fearing people but in the dim and distant past it was the scene of revelry and debauchery, a place where the gray mists of morning dimmed the lurid lights that shone above the portals of the tombs of long departed virtue.

To this sink of iniquity were lured by the siren of songs of the inmates the young men of the peninsula. The place was so notorious that it became a stench in the nostrils of the good people of Redwood City and in due time the law was evoked and the nuisance abated. The proprietoress, a young woman bearing the name of Frankie, was banished beyond the city limits and to a resort near aristocratic Atherton. There she lived a and flourished until the citizens of Atherton rose in their might and again Frankie was banished, this time to parts unknown.

In passing years many men now prominent in business affairs when rolling by in their limousines would look askance at the little cottage with its pretty green-colored blinds. It loomed as a beacon light to remind them of the days of their youth and foolishness. These will be glad to learn that the cottage has passed from view for ever.

LAST SERVICES IN OLD METHODIST CHURCH TOMORROW

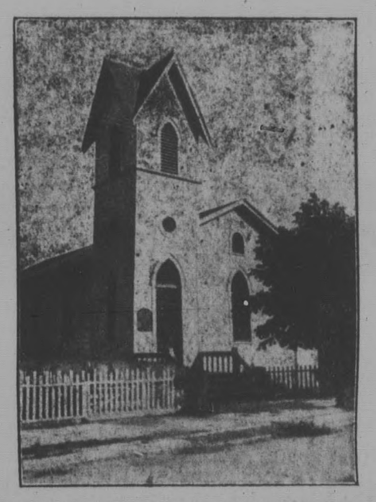
Building Used For Church Purposes Since 1874 To Be Abandoned By Congregation For New Building

The modest little Methodist Church on Maple street, that has been the scene of pious worship by the faithful since 1872, will hold its farewell service tomorrow with a communion service in the morning and an old-timers' night in the evening. This will mark the end of church services in the ancient building. The congregation has erected a large and imposing church building on Broadway and Brewster streets which will be dedicated next Sunday, November 8th. The new building cost in excess of $30,000. It is a splendid structure and a credit to Methodism, as well as to the devotion and generosity of the congregation, who subscribed liberally towards the building fund.

The old timers' night will be attended by Methodists from the bay district and all the old guard that have worshipped at the shrine of the little church in years gone by will be present to bid a sad last farewell to the old building that holds many memories to the old guard.

The ancient church was erected in its present site in 1872. The land was donated by the late Alexander Gordon, who at that time owned a large tract of land in that section of the city. He was a generous citizen and in those days was a political leader of the county and a prosperous farmer and warehouseman. Some years after he represented San Mateo County in the State Legislature.

OLD METHODIST CHURCH



One of the new fields taken up by Methodism in 1860 was Redwood City. Nothing much was done for a couple of years. In 1864 a church was built, which was later on blown down. For some little time the work languished but in 1872 the present church on Maple street, near Stambaugh, was erected. It has been added to and some respects remodeled during the last twenty years. At one time this and the Mayfield charge were under one pastor, but in 1883 Redwood City church became a separate charge and has so continued until the present time.

In the course of the years following, it became necessary to have a parsonage, but such was not built until 1896 when perservance and generosity of the Redwood people made it possible and that, too, in a few years without debt.

The following item anent the building of a new Methodist house of worship in this city is taken from the colums of the Gazette of January 25th, 1872: "Carpenter C. C. Underwood and J. O. Shaw are at work on the new Methodist Church. The foundation was laid on Monday, the location being a portion of the J. Preble lot, which was recently purchased at a cost of $300. The building is to be 32x40 feet on the ground, the posts 14 feet long, and enclosed with rustic. There will be no steeple The church will be occupied as soon as enclosed and the windows put in, which will be during March. The present outlay will be less than $1500 The Methodist people, something unusual for them in a prosperous town, have failed heretofore to get a foothold here in Redwood. Years ago they purchased a lot beyond the island' and raised the frame of a house of worship. Ill winds came along after the frame had become weather colored from exposure—a keel, a crash, and the skeleton of an edifice was a pile of refuse lumber. With the fall of the building Methodist enthusiasm for a meeting house in this place cooled off. Last year, however, it revived and a water lot was purchased between Mr. Tyler's barn and the school house. Holes were sunk for the foundation but no bottom was found. Presiding Elder Ross, wisely concluding that the people, or at least those likely to come after him and his generation, were not likely to be amphibious, determined upon the purchase of a secure foundation."

BIG THINGS IN SIGHT

"LIVE IN THE PRESENT" we have been told, "yesterday is dead, and tomorrow will never be." In spite of this sage precept, who in Redwood City but can be excused for occasinal day dreamings of tomorrow. We, who have seen hundreds of acres of pasture bloom forth into the most desirable residential districts, and who have seen substantial business buildings spring up out of the ruins of old frame buildings which served the town in its infancy, can say that we have seen changes. But what progress has there been here comparable to what we can vaguely discern in the future?

When representatives of the Southern Pacific Company, the McCormick Steamship Company, the Swayne & Hoyte Shipping Company, the James Rolph Steamship Company and other nationally known shipping concerns came here to discuss the possibilities of Redwood City, it is a pretty sure sign that Redwood City's future is secure. The United States government is satisfied that with Redwood City, big shipping concerns look to Redwood City to solve their traffic problems, manufacturers look to our marsh land as the solution of the question of cheap factory sites. We of Redwood City have only to wait with patience to see developments here that even the most sanguine of our present boosters can only dream of.

HIGHWAY SIGNS NEEDED

MORE than one autoist has passed through Redwood City without knowing which town he was passing through. In fact of the thousands who pass through on the highway over the week end, how many are not acquainted with this section, and really know when they are in Redwood City? Aside from a small sign telling the motorist to slow down there is no sign whatever to let him know that he has the pleasure of being in one of the most favored sections of the most favored state in the Union.

Redwood City is a town to be proud of, and we believe that some means should be taken to inform the motorist that he is here, when he is passing through our city. Some towns which we have seen have a sign: "Welcome to———", just as you enter the town. Then again as you leave, another sign meets your eye, "Goodbye, Come to ———— again," or, something of that sort. Good advertising? It sure is, and a kind that any town should profit by.

We would like to see some sort of sign erected on the Highway at each end of town and one on the Middlefield road, although we feel that the latter might be left until the road is repaired, as very little advertising is necessary on Phelps street at present.

THE DOLLAR YOU SPEND

DOLLARS are like sons in some ways and like your sons they will in a large measure return the treatment which you give them. Wisely invested in some good proposition or deposted in one of the local banks they will not only earn good interest but will aid materially in building up your town.

When it comes time to spend the dollar which has been working for you, you may keep its friendship by spending it with one of the local merchants. In this case you can not only get a dollar's worth of value for your dollar, but that same dollar invested by the merchant helps to make his stock better so that you have a larger supply to pick from; it increases the valuation of his business and in that way helps to keep your own taxes within bounds; it helps your neighbor to prosper and adds to the general prosperity of the community. Like an obedient son this dollar leaves its home to work for its employer and aids in the upkeep of its home.

This same dollar may be driven out of its home by being spent in some other town. In this case, like the son who is driven away by his father, this dollar will work for its new master. It will aid in developing a town in which you have no direct interest. It will not help your neighboring merchant to increase his stock, but will enable the outside merchant by doing so to attract its brother and sister dollars away from the home town.

WHO PROFITS MOST?

THE gasoline tax spread over the country like a case of measles. Now that it has been established, the tendency is to increase the tax because it is an easy way to get tax money. Many states have a tax as high as 3 cents a gallon and proposals have already been made for as high as 6 cents. The gasoline tax is on the theory that the automobile owners profit most by the good roads, but it is safe to say that no one profits to as great an extent by such roads as do the property owners along them. Take the owner of property on the main street of any town or small city which is traversed by a paved state highway. The automobile driver who pays the tax to build the road increases the value of this property to such an extent that rents are doubled, trebled and quadrupled. There were 17,548,377 motor vehicles registered in the United States on July 1st, last. If automobile owners could realize their numerical strength, there would be less chance of their being penalized as gasoline purchasers.

Last week under a caption, "Local Merchants Form Association," we quoted Mr. Zollinger, temporary secretary of the association, in which he purported to have had an interview with the publisher of a local newspaper which circulates a Redwood City addition of a Palo Alto newspaper. We in good faith quoted the statement made by this gentleman, but since that time however, he has denied absolutely having ever met this publisher or having made this statement. The publisher also denies having had any interview with the secretary of the association. The story was published as told to us, in good faith, and we regret any injustice that it might have caused. The "passing of the buck" is quite a favored sport on occasions, we know, and in justice to the situation we can only say, with the sage of old: "Don't believe all you hear, and only a part of what you see."

The Eskimo Knowledge of Telephone Is Somewhat Limited

Ignorance, regarding the telephone is present in many highly civilized countries and so it would be expected that the Eskimos would have little or no knowledge of this instrument. J. D. Worthington, manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co here, quotes a story of an interesting experience of Donald MacMillan, the explorer, taken from the "South-western Telephone News."

"As the warm sun of the short Northern summer melted the snow over the former camping ground on a previous expedition, Mr. McMillan discovered considerable debris, including some wire and one old telephone mouthpiece. His Eskimo companion showed intense interest in the white man's explanation of the use of the telephone. When the explorer turned in for a few hours' sleep the ingenious native tried his hand at telephone line construction.

Along the bleak Artic coast ran a straggling row of split boards about five feet high, from which was festooned a couple of hundred yards of wire. A single telephone mouthpiece dangled at one end of the line, and before it stood a solitary Eskimo. Into this improvised telephone he shouted a few words in his native language, then ran madly along the pole line, clapped the far end of the wire to his car, and listened for his own message. All he heard was the wind whistling over the icebound waters along the grim Northwest coast of Greenland.

Disappointed, but still hopeful, the Eskimo returned to the mouthpiece. Evidently feeling that he had not sprinted quite fast enough the first time, he repeated the process with an extra burst of speed, only to be disappointed again. Just then there appeared around the corner of the hut the white explorer who had given him the scrap of wire and the old mouthpiece. Immediately the Eskimo ceased his efforts and laughingly remarked that he knew the white man was lying, when he told about the telephone, for nobody could talk through a wire that had no hole in it.' LUMBERJACKS ACT IN FILM THRILLER

Giant Canadian Woodsmen Support Milton Sills in "The Knockout."

Earl Hudson stoped at nothing to get realism and genuine thrills into his first National picture, "The Knockout," which comes next Wednesday and Thursday, November 4-5, to the Sequoia Theatre starring Milton Sills.

In order to obtain the correct atmosphere for the outdoor scenes of this picture of the Canadian woods he sent his company into the wilds of Northern Ontario and Quebec. The location of the Ottawa River, the center of the largest lumbering activites in the Eastern secton of the country.

That the scenes might be true to life and depict the perilous task of the river drivers who bring millions of logs each year from the forests to the sawmills, Hudson, through the co-operation of the Canadian government, engaged the whole crew of one of the largest woods operators as actors in the picture.

"The Knockout" is a film filled with stirring action of the sort for which Sills has become famous. He is a prize fighter who goes to the loging camps of the north woods when he finds his right arm has gone back on him. There he meets opposition and action that make his ring efforts seem soft.

Sills battles his way against men of a type rarely seen in such numbers on the screen. He is surrounded by a band of physical giants. His principal fight is with John Philip Kolb, who stands six feet seven inches and weighs two hundred and fifty pohnds. A dozen real lumberjacks, picked for their huge stature, were taken along for other action scenes, and at every turn the big, hairy rough Canadians are in the background.

"The Knockout" is a screen version of M. D. C. Crawford's stirring novel, "The Comeback." The supporting cast includes Lorna Duveen, Jed Prouty, John Philip Kolb, Claude King, Harlan Knight and others. Lambert Hillyer directed.

VILMA BANKY HERE SOON IN FILM DEBUT

Beautiful Hungarian Actress and Ronald Colman in The Dark Angel

Few artists from abroad assimilate American customs and usages as rapidly as has Vilma Banky, the exotic Hungarian beauty recently discovered in Budapest by Samuel Goldwyn. And now, according to observers, Vilma has as quickly accomplished the finesse and technique of the American actress.

In Europe, where Miss Banky servher aprenticeship at motion picture work, apparently pictures carry only a certain provincial appeal, catering to the tastes and entertainment of only certain classes of certain nationalities.

It was along these lines that Vilma was coached and trained prior to her fateful meeting with Goldwyn, who recognized her latent genius and bestowed upon her a long-term contract before he had ever seen her upon the screen.

Since her arrival in Hollywood, but a few months ago, she has completed but one motion picture—George Fitzmaurice's production booked as a First National offering at the Sequoia Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, November 2-3. Yet, with her high degree of intelligence, according to Fitzmaurice, she easily cast off the mannerisms and oddities of technique acquired abroad, devoting herself studiously to the Americanization of her work, with astonishing success.

"She combines," says Fitzmaurice, "that indefinable something which apparently is the birthright of the European actress — that intuitive grace and gift of self-repression which stamp indelibly the born artiste—with the less subtle but more effective method of expression which marks the interpretations of the American player. The combination is irresistible."

"The Dark Angel," which gives American audiences, their first glimpse of Miss Banky, is an adaptation from the stage play of the same title.

Strong Membership Appeal In Red Cross Disaster Relief

Asking themselves "What if disaster should visit our city?" the leading citizens of many communities of the United States have adopted the Scout motto to "Be Prepared."

Impressed by the frequency and the wide range of peace time calamities in their country, they have organized their communities with the thoroughness which normal conditions permit, against the possibility of a time when there will be no chance for thought or plan. Red Cross Chapters in many localities are similarly prepared.

Taking Stains From Glass

To remove paint and varnish from glass, use three parts of American potash to one part of unslaked lime. Lay this on with a stick and let it remain for some time. Paint spots may also be removed by rubbing them with very hot, sharp vinegar.

Cleaning Without Odor by the F. Thomas Process

Our many years of experience has taught us that it is impossible to do perfect cleaning with cheap, inferior methods. That is why we found it necessary to invest nearly $500,000 in the equipment of a plant and the establishment of an expert organization to do the quality of work demanded bp our customers.

With the "F. Thomas Process" we not only remove every particle of dust but we return your garments without that usual disagreeable smell of gasoline. Every drop of gasoline we use in cleaning is redistilled and very highly refined.

Raw gasoline—the kind that you buy for your automobile—is full of heavy oils and unfit for cleaning fabrics. It is little better than ordinary distillate and leaves a sickening gasoline smell in your clothes.

Pacific Coast To Become World Industrial Center

That the Pacific Coast is destined to become the greatest industrial center in the world because 85 per cent. of the crude materials necessary to manufacture the world's products are found there, was the prediction made by Charles R. Smurr, industrial agent for the Southern Pacific Company before the California Real Estate Convention just concluded in Fresno.

Smurr said that a survey of the Pacific Coast shows that crude materials used in the making of every article manufactured throughout the world can be found on the Pacific Coast. He stated that the largest factor in the establishment of a successful industrial center is the development of a large consumer territory, imemdiately surrounding the center. He indicated that California had excellent prospects for such development in that it was closest to the Pacific Ocean on whose shores two thirds of the population of the world are located. He stated that the railroad was developing new agricultural and industrial territories by the extension of its lines and by bringing eastern manufacturers to the West to locate near large centers of poulation where labor and rail transportation facilities were available.

Lightning and Campers

A study of lightning fatalities, says E. F. Creighton of the General Electric company leads the scientists to believe that picnickers and soldiers are more often the victims of lightning than other people. Why is this? Fires at noon, he explains, cause an upward current of air which becomes charged and the charge is emptied immediately in the vicinity from where it originated. "The next time you go on a camping trip," he says, "just throw a few wires across the trees above your fire and all will be safe.

Pope's Change of Name

The first pope of Rome to change his name on assuming the pontificate was Pietro Osporca or Peter Hogsmouth. Some authorities attribute the change to the apparent arrogance of assuming to call himself Peter II, but the general impression is that he was glad to rid himself forever from all associations with his family name by assuming the title of Sergius II. This precedent has been followed by all his successors.

Modern Inventions Provide Independence of Weather

More and more, man is gaining independence from the whims of the weather. In England, for instance, where the climate is damp, great difficulty was always encountered in curing hay that was green and wet. Now, however a device has been perfected which allows the farmer to make hay whether the sun shines or not. This device consists of a cone-shaped framework around which the grass is stacked. Then hot air from a furnace is driven through it by means of a fan blower, driven by a tractor. When cured, the hay is apparently as palatable as if it were sun-cured.

Another device which makes men independent of weather is the refrigerator. Tmie was when ice could only be secured by cutting it from ponds during the winter and storing it in an ice house. This method made it extremely expensive, and difficult for most people to obtain. Consequently, the amount of food which spoiled during hot weather for lack of ice was enormous. And in addition to the actual dollars and cents loss due to food spoilage, there was the more important result of illness caused by eating foodstuffs which, through lack of proper methods of preservation, became contaminated.

Nowadays, modern manufacturing methods can produce ice artificially at a cost which is only a fraction of the expense incurred in "harvestin" it in its natural state. And the refrigerator, once considered a luxury, as become not only a common household appliance, but a year-round necessity.

Pepsin Production

The bureau of animal industry says that pepsin is procured in the following manner: Young pigs are taken and confined for several days, then, after being starved, they are killed and the stomachs removed. The linings of the stomachs are scraped and the pepsin extracted from the mucous membrane by the use of a salt solution. It is then purified and treated in a vacuum.

Convince yourself

It is a matter of simple arithmetic to prove for yourself that ice, used regularly throughout the year, will pay for itself in the food it saves.

Keep a careful record of your food bills for a month. You will see that for a small percentage of this sum you can keep your refrigerator filled with ice.

Compare this with the cost of food wasted every month in the "kitchen cooler." The answer is—ice is a real economy as well as a protection to health.

Leach, Jr., Vice-President and General Manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company that orders have been approved for the construction of the Pit No. 4 dam and intake which is the next project in the company's power development program on Pit river in Shasta county. This diversion dam is to be located about one and one-half miles down stream from the Pit No. 3 power house which was placed in operation July 18th, of this year.

The company's engineering department has completed detail plans and designs for the dam and tunnel intake structure. The new dam will raise the water level in Pit river forty feet and will have a crest length or width of four hundred ten feet. The raising of this water level will form a reservoir of 1,550 acre feet, backing the water up to the Pit No. 3 plant; thereby making a second large lake in Pit river canyon.

Construction of this dam calls for an expenditure of $1,750,000. Cost of the entire Pit No. 4 project, exclusive and railroad and transmission lines is estimated at $14,500,000.00. The work approved will be carried on through the winter months, employing at a minimum of 300 men.

About ten miles of additional railroad construction, costing $530,000 will be extended from the Pit No. 3 power house down the Pit river canyon to the Pit No. 4 power house site. The road about four miles in length has been completed to the dam site. This Pit No. 4 development is the fifth of a series of eight plants to be built in the Pit river section, Shasta county, at a total cost in excess of $100,000,000. Hat creek No. 1 and No. 2, Pit No. 1 and No. 3 power houses with an installed capacity of 235,000 horsepower have been completed and are now in operation.

O. W. Peterson, engineer of general construction and the man who handled the construction of the Pit No. 3 job under the direction of P. M. Downing, vice-president in charge of electrical construction and operation, will be in charge of the construction of the Pit No. 4 plant.

Hard Winter Presaged

The protection from firearms afforded wild animals in the Banff National park in Alberta has caused them each year to become less afraid of humans, but such familiarity as that recorded has never been known before, and surely betokens something. Other premonitory symptoms of severe climate have been observed by trappers and mountaineers. The summit gophers and ground squirrels are already "caching" their winter supply of pine burs, a sure presage, they say.—Montreal Herald.

The electric cutters are used for going through the steel side of a ship. This new unit answers all district calls and is kept at fire brigade headquarters.

"Hog Latin" Lost Art

"The younger generation may be able to brag about lots of accomplishments that we old timers didn't have," said an Atkinson avenue resident of long standing, "but there is one art that we cherished as boys that is dying. When I was a youngster we conversed frequently in 'Hog Latin,' and got the greatest thrill out of believing that no one else could understand us. The other day I happened to think of that, and I haven't forgotten a bit of the stuff. I can still rattle off those twisted syllables just as well as I ever could, and the youngsters of mine who go to college and talk French and Spanish and very modern English eat in wonder and thought that I had gone crazy. I guess that they had just the feeling I have when they shout at me in French or that very modern English."—Detroit News.

RED CROSS AID TO VETS MOUNTING

Heavier Demands for War Service Laid to New Legislation Granting Wide Benefits.

ACTIVE FORCES AIDED ALSO

Duty to Ex-Service and Service Men First Responsibility of the Red Cross.

A marked increase in the service given by the American Red Cross to ex-service men, through Chapters, hospitals, Government and Red Cross offices during the past year, and which volume is expected to be maintained during most of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, is shown in the reports of the war service activities of the organization, just completed.

Service to the disabled and to men now in active service continued to be one of the primary obligations of the Red Cross. The increased activities in this regard were attributed largely to the legislation giving new benefits to ex-service men.

The keystone of the Red Cross service lies in the Home Service work of the chapters to veterans and men still in service. At the close of the fiscal year June 30, 1925, 2,591 Chapters were active in this work and had expended approximately $2,237,000.

Included in their work was assistance to ex-service men in making out adjusted compensation papers, in the handling of claims reopened, or made possible under liberalized terms of the World War Veterans' Act of 1924; and in many other ways.

An unusual amount of legislation passed by Congress and State bodies has necessitated the issue of much new material in the past year. Legislation was passed during the year liberalizing conditions applying to hospitalization, compensation and other benefits under the Veterans' Bureau; this in turn has entailed reopening of many claims formerly disallowed, filing of many new ones, and many applications for hospitalization. The Claims Service at National Headquarters this year handled 17,506 in comparison with 12,010 cases the previous year.

Increased service to men in hospitals was noted, as well in the number of hospitals in which service was maintained by the organization. Due to new legislation an increase of over 6,000 patients were admitted for hospitalization, a new peak approximating that of March 1922. Since a large number of this group includes patients not eligible for compensation, the solution of their personal and family problems has involved careful study by the National Organization.

There are 30,000 disabled ex-service men in Government hospitals every day of the year, and their need has directly led to a revival of the best-known and perhaps most popular activity the Red Cross sponsored in war—a new campaign for knitted "Red Cross sweaters." These articles are among the few not furnished by the Government.

For the men still on active duty in the Army, Navy and Marines, the Red Cross during the year maintained Field Directors at all important stations, camps, and hospitals of these armed forces of the country.

A monthly average of 96,931 service and ex-service men were aided by the Red Cross during the year.

The man in service, and the man who has served his country are among the primary responsibilities for which the American Red Cross is chartered by Congress. Nevertheless it has many other obligations and it is on this basis that an appeal will be made for a larger enrollment than ever during the Annual Roll Call, Armistice Day, November 11, to November 26.

Oldtime Purses

From the wearing of the pouch at the side, in the Fifteenth and Sixteenth centuries, we trace the origin of the poke, or pocket, where, according to Shakespeare, it was customary to carry one's dial. Henry VIII of England carried a purse of red satin embroidered in gold, and under Catherine de Medici perfumed leather purses became the rage and cost at the time as much as $30 apiece.

To Read Dates on Coins

A great many of us enjoy looking for old coins every time we get a bunch of money. Occasionally we run across a coin that is worn so badly that the date mark cannot be read. To read this date heat a piece of steel or iron until red hot. Then place the coin on it. The coin, getting warm will show the date or any other reading that ordinarily could not be read. —Boys' World.

Murder Mystery Girl Native of This County

Carmen Wagner, whose tragic death in the wilds of Humboldt county by some fiend has aroused the anger of the entire state, was born at the Homestead, near San Mateo on October 27, 1906. Her father was a dairyman there and was well known in the county. The members, relatives, still live there.

The flaming-haired beauty spent a portion of her childhood at the Homestead. Her parents moved to Yager, a small settlement very close to Coyote Flat, where she met her death, when she was between three and four years old. There she grew to beautiful womanhood. She was a modern Diana, using the rifle with skill and was a dead shot. She knew the mountains like an eagle and was a clever hunter of ability.

It was reported in Redwood City yesterday that she was a cousin of William Wagner, who resided here twenty-five years ago, but in running down the story, it was learned that they were not related.

It was learned from one who recently came from the scene of the tragedy that Carmens hand did not protrude from the improvised grave in the dry creek bed as published in the San Francisco papers but on the contrary, the grave was in a shallow basin covered over carefully with grass so that it would never have been discovered but for the frantic of the girl's dog near by. The body was so skilfully concealed that only a pioneer of that wild country could find it. The Indian's cunning was shown in the burial of the unfortunate young girl.

It has also been learned from this party that one of the halfbreed Indians charged with the murder of the girl, was her sweetheart, and is a handsome upright young man. This is contrary to the accounts published in the city papers.

The whole affair is wrapped in mystery that may take a long time to solve.

Decries "Junk" in Abbey

The proposal to overhaul Westminster abbey so that more of its treasures and beauties may be revealed has led C. W. R. Nevison, an English artist, to remark that the abbey is more like a department store than a church.

The opinion that some of the most beautiful things in the abbey cannot be seen because of the overcrowded memorial statuary is shared by many lovers of the historic building, including Canon Westlake, the abbey historian.

"The proper course is to get rid of some of the ecclesiastical junk at present in the abbey," Mr. Nevison said. "I think it could be cleaned out without offending anybody's susceptibilities. Ultimately many beautiful things could be discovered which cannot now be seen."—Westminster Gazette.

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

Mrs. Hans Agard of Menlo Park left Wednesday for Los Angeles to visit relatives for several weeks.

The Menlo Park branch, National Council of Catholic Women, are planning a bazaar for December 12. Arrangements for the affair were discussed at a meeting of the organization, held this week.

United States Veterans' Hospital, No. 24, at Palo Alto, is one of the 66 out of 111 California hospitals which meet with the requirements of hospital standaridation as announced by the American College of Surgeons. Hospitals accredited on the basis of efficient staff organization, adequate disagnostic and therapeutic facilities, trained personnel, complete case records, and periodic check-up or medical audit of the clinical work of the hospital.

The Menlo Garage, owned by W. J. Murray, was sold this week to a Palo Alto party who is to convert the interior of the building into stores. The present lessees are to move out in a few days. They have leased the new brick building on the highway from A. S. Monte. The Menlo Garage was erected in 1914 and for some time housed the postoffice. It is a substantial structure located in the best business section of the town. A fancy figure was secured for the property.

The Native Daughters will give a card party in Duff and Doyle hall next Wednesday afternoon. Good prizes are to be given the winners.

The Girl Scouts gave a Hallowe'en party in the parish house of the Trinity Episcopal church last evening. The pretty, winsome and athletic girls had as their guests the Boy Scouts of Menlo Park. All had a delightful time and the feature of the evening was the delectable refreshments served by the Colonel and Captain of the Girl Scouts.

W. E. Orton this week sold his property in Redwood Highlands to a Redwood City party. Mr. Orton made a good profit on the choice realty.

Charles Cooley yesterday disposed of his building on University avenue, Palo Alto, to a San Francisco concern for $80,000. The property was formerly known as the Parkinson block and was purchased by Mr. Cooley some years ago for $25,000. It is believed that the purchaser is the Bank of Italy, at least, that is the current rumor at the College City.

Menlo Park is long suffering out patient, willing to bear her burdens until such time as present conditions may be remedied. Last Saturday evening the highway was so crowded with automobiles coming from the big football game at Stanford that pedestrians were compelled to wait for more than a half hour at the time to cross the street. A traffic officer should be at the street corners to assist citizens to pass. It is done in other towns, why not here?

Joseph Farrel, a placer miner in Yuba county, has sold an acre of land on University Drive, Stanford Park to C. F. Slinger, who plans to erect six dwellings on the property. The houses will be for sale when completed.

More than two hours of fighting by the Menlo Park fire department were required Monday to control a grass fire which threatened the country estate of Charles Dunphy and adjoining property at Menlo Park. The origin of the blaze could not determined firemen said. Mr. Dunphy is a son-in-law of Dan Burns of Palo Alto.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Heltzel arrived home during the week from a trip to England and Scotland, the latter place being the birthplace of Mrs. Heltzel. The visitors from California enjoyed the scenery and show places of the old country. They did not notice in England the prosperity apparent in the east before leaving the United States. They, however, found the people contented and happy. Mr. and Mrs. Heltezel are glad to be back in the land of fruit, flowers and perpetual sunshine.

The Lee property on the highway at Atherton that was recently sold by E. W. Magruder of Redwood City, has been leased for a period of two years to Mr. Heggler of Oakland who is improving the property. He is to conduct a food specialty shop.

—ooo—

Mr. Furnivall, the local furniture man, has bought a house and lot on the corner of Middle avenue and University Drive, Stanford Park, which he intends to develop.

P. R. Lane has taken over the agency of the San Francisco afternoon papers from F. Bauderman, agent for the morning papers. Mr. Lane formerly was the agent for all the city journals. He also has the agency for the Bulletin at Palo Alto.

John Brickell, who died in San Francisco recently, was a brother of Mrs. Stuart Middlemas of Menlo Park whose husband purchased the A. J. Marcus home on Oak Grove avenue a few years ago. Mr. Brickell left a large estate. To his young wife, who was formerly Miss Bracchi of Mayfield, he left his beautiful Sea Cliff home, worth over a hundred thousand dollars, and one hundred and seventy-five thousand in cash. The balance of the estate was bequeathed to his two sisters and a brother. The estate is valued at in excess of a million. Mrs. Bricknell will be remembered here as the pretty Miss Bracchi who attended all social functions here in days gone by. She was the belle of Mayfield. Her father resides in Palo Alto.

The bond election of the North Palo Alto takes place on November 3. The sum of $25,000 is to be raised to furnish a sewer system for that growing locality. The bonds will carry almost unanimously as there is no opposition to them.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Charles Marcus are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a third daughter on October 21. The child will be called Patricia Ann.

BOLSHEVISM, SUBJECT OF KIWANIS CLUB LECTURE

Bolshevicks, parlor reds and other anti-social groups were made the subject of a lecture by Prof. Frederick Wedge of the Sequoia Union High School given before the Redwood City Kiwanis club at their regular luncheon meeting on Wednesday. Prof. Wedge after leaving college went to work as a stevedore, a sailor a railroad man, and other lines of work to study the attitude of the working man and of the agitators who make it their business to keep the working man discontented.

Speaking of this activity among the Communists, Professor Wedge cited some instructions sent out from the head office of the bolsheviks for the professional agitators. These instructions were in part as follows:

To create discontent, substitute such notions as 'breaking our chains, "crippling the boss," "victorious working class," "labor deserves all it produces," "it's a good thing to get everybody on the job to use in daily speech such words as "Wage Slaves," to make the workers think that they have little to lose by striking and striking often, since they are already degraded as far as it is possible to be, and that the approaching strike is going to give them an opportunity to recover their manhood."

Accompanying these instructions from the I. W. W. headquarters were some very definite ideas on how "to jar the contented workman out of that mental attitude that would make him think he ought to stay on the job when the I. W. W. pulls the strike." The ocal organizer and delegates are even instructed very definitely about the mental habits of what the delegates and organizers always refer to as the "slaves." "Human beings are to a large extent the creatures of habit," quotes the I. W. W. headquarters. "It is a good thing to jar the individual workers out of the habit of dreading trouble by pointing out many abuses make some—if job conditions are good, ruin them.

The organizers and delegates became actors in a "Red" drama directed from the I. W. W headquarters When one of the foremen would come out to hire a crew to work the ship's cargo, the I. W. W. organizers and delegates holding their blue employment cards (which they had obtained from the office of the Marine Service Bureau, San Pedro, without disclosing their identity with the I. W. W.) would shout and beg and sometimes pretend to cry for a job. They trampled over the longshoremen who had worked for years on the San Pedro waterfront. One stevedore who had longshored for twelve years at the outer harbor, had two ribs broken by an I. W. W. organizer pushing him against the iron rail of the inner office.

Woodside Notes

Mrs. H. F. Zane opened her new house to about twenty of the ladies of Woodside on Thursday afternoon at a tea and reception. This is one of the handsomest homes in Woodside and demonstrates the possibility of combining comfort and distinction in the same house. One of its notable features is the electric equipment, every possibility of applying electricity to the work of the household being provided for.

James V. Neuman returned from Suisun on Thursday with a limit bag of wild ducks. He has a wide reputation as a follower of Nimrod. Nothing could prevent him getting the limit but a lack of ducks at the shooting grounds.

Emmett O'Neill has spent the last two weeks about home on crutches as the result of over enthusiastic practise of football at the Sequoia High School.

This community is seldom annoyed by sneak thieves. One visited this neighborhood on Monday, however, and abstracted a gold watch from the home of George D. Squires.

Jim Butler, an employee of William Byrne, returned from a trip to the city this week, looking much as if he had been run through a combined harvester. He was struck by an automobile on the streets of San Francisco and suffered injuries from which he will be several weeks recovering.

Robert H. Carney, the popular mechaic in charge of Neuman Brothers garage, welcomed, this week, the arrival of the first addition to his family circle, a husky boy who bids fair, in time to become as handsome as his dad.

Joe Limacher has just returned from a two-moths' visitt to his old home in Switzerland.

Peter Bernasque is building an addition to his house. He is also wrecking the big barn that has been a land mark for so many years.

Workmen have been busy all week reshingling the Josselyn house. This has such a wide expanse of roof that covering it with shngles offers a long job for several men.

Mrs. A. H. Audiffred gave a dinner party on Sunday last to sixteen of her friends from San Francisco and Berkeley. The decorations were in Hallowe'en colors of black and orange with a plentiful sprinkling of black cast and witches.

Mrs. Henry Martens, since her return from abroad, has been staying with her daughter, Mrs. Jos. L. Ross, Jr., while Mr. Martens has been visiting relatives in the San Joaquin valley.

Oliver Dibble, Jr., expects to open his new home here at Thanksgiving time.

Stewart Elliott has bought the Benjamin Bangs place in the Spring Valley subdivision and after a trip to Europe, will enlarge the house and make this his permanent home.

The church choir, under the direction of Miss Mahon, is rehearsing a program of special music to be presented soon at the church in an evening concert.

Carl Zimmerman and family departed last Friday for his new home at Los Angeles.

Miss Hortense Lagarde who has been ill at the hospital for several weeks is convalescing at her home here.

An addition is being erected at the J. J. Kelley home. Floyd Kelley is soon to be married and room is to be provided for the bride.

Miss Florence Wolfe has been ill for some time at the home of her brother, Arthur Wolfe.

This dance is not conducted for profit, but solely to provide a safe, clean, wholesome and altogether beneficial recreation to a hopeful public. It provides a safety valve alike to the "tired business interests" and the fagged college student. All profits obtained (?) and much more, are re-invested in Peninsula property. No liquor is permitted on the premises, and no intoxicated persons may be admitted. No girl under 18 is allowed without a chaperon, and the intention of the management is that the assembly dance at Babylon be so conducted that it is like Caesar's wife—"Above Reproach."
